DETAILED ACTION

1. This office action is in response to the Supplemental Amendment filed June 01, 2007.

Accordingly, claim 22 was amended, and claims 1-21, 23-25 and 27-33 were cancelled. Currently, claims 22, 26, 34 and 35 are pending in this application.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 22, 26, 34 and 35 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: none of the prior art of record fairly suggests or shows all of the limitations as claimed. Specifically,

Re claim 22, none of the prior art of record discloses, in combination with other limitations as claimed, a liquid crystal display device comprising a first orientation control element formed in said pixel electrode and extending in a nonparallel direction relative to an extending direction of an edge of said pixel electrode, and a second orientation control element extending in a parallel direction relative to an extending direction of said edge, wherein said first orientation control element is provided on said first and second substrates respectively;

wherein at least a part of liquid crystal molecules of said liquid crystal layer on said second orientation control element are orientated in a vertical direction relative to said substrate when voltage is being applied between said pixel and opposed electrodes;

wherein said first and second orientation are pattern-cut slits; and

wherein said second orientation control element is provided on said second substrate, and said pixel electrode does not exist on at least a part of a place on said first substrate opposed to said second orientation control element.

The most relevant reference, US 6,614,492 B1 to Song, fails to disclose or suggest that at least a part of liquid crystal molecules of said liquid crystal layer on said second orientation control element are orientated in a vertical direction relative to said substrate when voltage is being applied between said pixel and opposed electrodes. As shown in Figs. 2 and 3, Song discloses a first orientation control element (51 and 81), extending in a nonparallel direction relative to an extending direction of an edge of the pixel electrode 50, and a second orientation control element (corresponding to portions A, B, C and D) extending in a parallel direction relative to an extending direction of said edge, wherein said first orientation control element 51 and 81 is provided on the first and second substrates 10 and 60 respectively and the first control element 51 is formed in the pixel electrode 50;

wherein said first and second orientation are pattern-cut slits (opening patterns);
and

wherein said second orientation control element is provided on said second substrate 60, and said pixel electrode does not exist on at least a part of a place on said first substrate 10 opposed to said second orientation control element.

However, as shown in Fig. 3, the liquid crystal molecules on said second orientation control element are orientated in a non-vertical direction relative to the substrate when voltage is being applied between the pixel and opposed electrodes 50 and 80.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
